22 NAZI OPERATORS OF CONCENTRATION CAMP HANGED BY U. S.

Held Responsible for Deaths of 700,000 Wartime Victims; 27 More To Follow.

By The Associated Press

LANDSBERG, GERMANY, May 27—Twenty-two operators of the infamous Nazi concentration camp at Mauthausen were hanged today, with 27 others scheduled to follow them to the gallows tomorrow in the biggest mass executions of war criminals yet carried out by any Allied power.

All were convicted by an American war crimes court of murders and atrocities against inmates at the big camp near Linz, at which more than 700,000 Nazi victims allegedly were exterminated during the war.

On two gallows in the yard of Landsberg prison, where Adolf Hitler was once incarcerated, three U. S. army executioners dropped the first 22 of the 49 convicted camp operators to their deaths in two hours and 37 minutes.

Forestalls Death 18 Minutes

A muscular Austrian snapped the cords binding his wrists as he plunged through the trap and grabbed the rope above his head kicking and struggling violently, he managed to forestall death for 18 minutes.

All of the doomed walked firmly to their deaths and spoke a few calm words of farewell. The Army executioners, whose names were withheld, worked swiftly, dropping the noose over the head of one man as his predecessor still dangled from the other gallows.

Just before the hanging began, the Polish displaced persons convicted of murder and rape were executed by a U. S. firing squad in the far corner of the prison yard.

140 Await Death

Between the black-curtained scaffolds and the double-staked rifle range, the sun-glazed prison yard was green with vegetable gardens tended by the 565 prison inmates, of whom 140 are awaiting execution for war crimes.

Of 61 Mauthausen guards, doctors and administrators convicted at Dachau a year ago, 58 originally were sentenced to die and three were sentenced to life imprisonment, but nine death sentences later were commuted to life imprisonment.

Several Nationalities Included

The convicts included Austrians, Czechs, Hungarians and Yugoslavs as well as Germans. Most were members of the SS elite guard. Their ages ranged from 22 to 63.

The court which convicted them ruled that they had written an "irrefutable record of death by shooting, gassing, hanging and regulated starvation" at Mauthausen and held every camp official to be "culpably criminally responsible."

Among the thousands of victims at the infamous camp was Joseph Morton, Associated Press correspondent captured by the Germans while trying to reach anti-Nazi forces in Slovakia to obtain a news story.

FARM APPROPRIATION MAJOR BUDGET TEST

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 27—The house appropriations committee faced a major test today in its drive to chop $6,000,000,000 from President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget for 1948.

Rumblings of discontent among Republicans and Democrats alike increased as the $805,143,576 agriculture department supply bill, cut 32 per cent below budget requests, came before the house for debate. A vote on passage was set for late tomorrow.

Even Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill), who headed the subcommittee which drafted the bill and who will handle it on the floor, told reporters "there may be some trouble."

Dirksen referred to pending amendments to restore some of the funds the committee cut from soil conservation payments, from the school lunch program and from other agriculture department projects.

Dirksen said he will resist all amendments making "any substantial change" in the committee's bill.

Other Republican leaders said privately they expect the bill to give the committee its first major test since it involves so many congressional districts.

Among Republicans who have spoken out against the measure are Chairman Hope (Kas) of the house agriculture committee, Rep. Hull (Wis) and Senator Aiken (Vt).

Rep Cannon (D-Mo), former chairman of the appropriations committee accused the Republican leadership of having "kicked in the slats" western and midwestern Republican farmers who, he said, helped the G.O.P. obtain control of congress in last year's elections.

Major cuts recommended by the committee in lopping $383,427,742 from budget requests for a total of $1,188,751,318 included $35,000,000 in the school lunch fund and $117,620,754 from soil conservation payments to farmers.

3 STORES GUTTED IN FIRE AT COLUMBUS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 27—A three-alarm fire gutted three downtown stores and damaged upstairs offices early today in a four-story brick building in the downstairs offices early today in a four-story brick building in the downtown area here.

The fire was brought under control at about 3 a. m., less than an hour after it started. A record shop, shoe store and restaurant on the ground floor of the building, located on South High street near town street, were hard hit by the blaze. Damage, it was estimated unofficially, would exceed $100,000, including store stocks.

In addition to the record shop, damage extended to the Modern Youth Shoe Shop, Moskins Credit Clothing store, the Shapiro Optical Co. and at least eight offices including those of the Ohio Newspaper association and the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants.

Part of the first floor ceiling in the four-story building collapsed and firemen said they feared other sections might give way.

Policemen still were guiding pedestrians around the building this morning because of falling glass.

Fire Chief Clarence Ogborn said he believed the fire began in a basement waste paper basket, but the fire prevention bureau was called to investigate.

By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ore., May 27—Brig. Gen. Evans F. Carlson, 51, famed leader of the Marine unit known as Carlson's Raiders in the Pacific war, died in Emmanuel hospital at 7:30 a. m. today.

The famed warrior had been in the hospital less than a day, suffering from a heart attack.

Last year with his wife and son, Tony, he retired to a mountain cabin at Brightwood east of here on the slopes of Mount Mood, into a quiet life and he spent two months in the Naval hospital at Astoria, Ore., being released Jan. 3.

MAY DENIES KNOWING GARSSON IN HAVANA

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 27—Former Congressman Andrew J. May told a federal jury that he and munitions maker Murray Garsson flew to Cuba a month after the war started. But, he said, he just "happened to be" on the same plane with Garsson and didn't remember whether they shared adjoining hotel rooms in Havana.

The 72-year-old May, wartime chairman of the house military committee is on trial on charges of taking $55,000 in bribes from Garsson and his brother, Henry, operators of a munitions combine. The Garssons are charged with paying the alleged bribes for help May gave them on war contracts and other matters.

William A. Paisley, chief prosecutor, questioned May about the Havana trip just before he concluded a lengthy cross examination of the former Kentucky congressman.

"Were you in Havana, Cuba, with Murray Garsson right after Pearl Harbor, in January 1942?" Paisley asked.

"Yes, I was, but I wasn't with Garsson."

May said Garsson just "happened to be" on the plane when he went on a personal inspection of Cuban military defenses and

Sugar Dearth Eases As U. S. Validates Stamp Immediately

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 27 — Household sugar shortage problems are being eased rapidly.

The agriculture department came up with this good news for the housewife:

1. Spare stamp No. 12 in ration books may be used for 10 pounds of sugar immediately rather than on June 1 as previously announced;

2. A new rationing stamp good for 10 pounds will be validated not later than Aug. 1, and

3. If the sugar picture continues to improve the individual consumer can get more sugar than the 35 pounds previously allotted him for 1947.

The department's action yesterday assures consumers the full 35 pounds of sugar promised under the 1947 sugar control extension act and makes it available by Aug. 1.

Spare stamp No. 53 good for five pounds expired March 31; spare stamp No. 11 was validated for 10 pounds and is good until Oct. 31; spare stamp No. 12 will expire Oct. 31.

The number of the new stamp to be validated was not announced.

Hoover Joins Fight For $725,000,000 Relief Fund

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 27 —Herbert Hoover, after unleashing a fresh blast at Russia, undertook the job today of trying to pry a $725,000,000 relief fund for occupied countries out of the economy-minded house appropriations committee.

In advance of the former Republican president's appearance at a closed-door session, committee members told reporters they want the answers to many questions before they approve spending any more American money abroad.

The former president has said that unless the full $725,000,000 war department request is approved, "millions of people under our flags" will die of starvation. The amount needed, he said, is about the same that was provided for the current year "and this year's experience demonstrates how near starvation is in these countries."

Truman Proposes New Housing Setup

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 27—President Truman today proposed to congress the creation of a completely new housing and home finance agency to handle virtually all government activities in that field.

In a special message, Mr. Truman said such an agency "will unquestionably make for greater efficiency and economy."

His plan would scrap the existing national housing agency (NHA) which coordinates present housing functions. It was created under the President's wartime powers and will go out of existence six months after the declared end of the war.

Mr. Truman said the proposed new agency should be a permanent part of government.

"The provision of adequate housing will remain a major national objective throughout the next decade," the message said.

"The primary responsibility for meeting housing needs rests and must continue to rest with private industry, as I have stated on other occasions.

Government Has Role

"The federal government, however, has an important role to play in stimulating and facilitating home construction."

White House aides forwarded Mr. Truman's message to congress during his absence in Missouri.

In transmitting to Capitol Hill "Reorganization Plan No. 3," providing for bringing into one agency most of the government's housing activities.

Under the law enacted by the last congress, Mr. Truman has authority to propose such consolidations or reorganizations of the government's bureaus and agencies. Such plans become law automatically unless congress adopts a resolution disapproving them within 60 days after they are submitted.

Rejected 1946 Proposal

Congress last year rejected a different Truman proposal which would have established the present, temporary national housing agency as a permanent unit for the supervision of housing functions.

When NHA dissolves, Mr. Truman's new message told the legislators, "the housing programs of the government will be scattered among some 13 agencies in seven departments and independent establishments."

He continued:

"I need hardly point out that such a scattering of their interrelated functions would not only be inefficient and wasteful but also would seriously impair their usefulness."

Therefore, he said, he asked establishment of a permanent agency "at the earliest possible date."

Calls for 3 Agencies

His plans call for three agencies operating in and under the housing and home finance agency, as follows:

1. A home loan bank board of three members, to administer the federal savings and loan insurance corporation, the home owners loan corporation and the functions of the federal home loan bank board.

2. A federal housing administration, with the same functions now held by that agency. One of FHA's major functions is insurance of mortgages on new homes.

3. A public housing administration, to take over functions of the federal public housing authority and some remaining emergency housing activities.

Top officials of the new housing set-up, Mr. Truman proposed would be an administrator to head the housing and home finance agency, the three members of the home loan bank board, and one commissioner each for the FHA and the public housing administration.

All would be appointed by the President but his selections would have to have senate approval.

The plan would vest in the new administrator considerably more power than as is presently exercised by NHA Administrator Raymond M. Foley, who has declared his function to be one of merely coordinating the lesser agencies under his general supervision.

The plan also proposes a national housing council to wrap up a few housing activities which do not fit into the main pattern. All the housing agencies, as well as other departments and bureaus having housing functions, would be represented on the council.

YOUTH ADMITS SHOOTING FOUR

Confesses Killing of Michigan Children but "Doesn't Know Why."

By The Associated Press

IMLAY CITY, Mich., May 27—Slender, 16-year-old Oliver Terpenning Jr., was arrested near Toledo, O., today and was charged with murder in the flower-patch slaying of four children of a neighboring farmer.

Justice Albert Perkins signed a warrant on recommendation of Prosecutor Kenneth Smith of Lapeer county, charging Terpenning with the murder of 16-year-old Barbara Smith, oldest of the four victims and "girl friend" of Terpenning.

The bodies of three girls and a boy, bouquets of flowers clutched in their hands, were found late Monday near a swampy gravel pit.

They were Barbara, 16, Gladys, 12, Janet, 2, and Stanley, 14, children of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith living on a farm nine miles northeast of here.

Turned Over to Ohio

Terpenning was turned over to Ohio authorities shortly after a motorist gave him a ride as he hitchhiked south toward the Michigan-Ohio line.

Police officials in both states said he admitted shooting the children about 3 p. m. Monday but that he gave no reason for his act.

Sgt. Carl Siem of the Michigan state police post at Erie, Mich., said the high school boy appeared to be "in a fog."

Michigan troopers sped across the state line to suburban Toledo and returned Terpenning to Michigan. They questioned him briefly and then took him by car to state police headquarters in East Lansing.

Makes Verbal Confession

At the East Lansing center, officers said Terpenning had made a verbal confession to Erie troopers. They said bloodstains marked the khaki clothes he was wearing.

Authorities here said they were drawing up a warrant for Terpenning in connection with the slayings.

U.S. CALLED THIRD POWER IN AVIATION

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 27—Rep. Bender (R-Ohio) placed the United States third in air power today because, he said, of relaxation since the war.

"Reliable reports from aviation experts," he said, "indicate that both the Soviet Union and Great Britain are now better prepared in the air than ourselves."

The simulated "attack" on New York and other east coast cities, Bender added in an interview, emphasized a need for "constant alertness."

"This 'attack' by a fleet of B-29's dramatized far more than the vulnerability of our great metropolitan centers to assault from the air," Bender said.

Thousands of Americans who watched the mass flight were "disappointed because they expected more," the Ohioan said.

They wondered, he added, "if this is all we have on hand toward off danger."

"Since the war," Bender asserted, "Our own fleet of planes has been permitted to become obsolete in large part. Our supply of trained aviators has declined sharply."

Committee Approves Ordnance Plant Bill

(More about Legislature on Pg. 12)

The senate elections committee of the Ohio legislature last night recommended acquisition by the state of a 1,293-acre tract of the Scioto Ordnance Plant here for use as an adjunct to the boys' industrial school at Lancaster. The Associated Press reported today in a dispatch from Columbus.

The committee acted on a bill introduced late last week authorizing the state to accept the offer of the federal government to transfer the property to the state. Favorable action also was taken by the committee on a similar proposal to transfer the Army's former Fletcher General hospital to the state. The Cambridge institution now is under lease by the state as a hospital for mental patients.

The ordnance plant tract, which begins at the Pennsylvania railroad and Williamsport road north of Marion, includes the administration area buildings.

Pupils To Gather Flowers To Mark Veterans' Graves

Pupils from the various schools will again assist with the gathering of flowers to be used to decorate graves of the war dead in the annual Memorial Day services Friday morning, John V. Ruth, chairman of the flower committee announced today.

This year the children will gather the flowers donated by Marion residents on Wednesday evening and Thursday morning, depositing the donations at their respective schools before noon Thursday.

Wright's Transfer will deliver containers to the schools on Wednesday evening and then pick up the donations on Thursday afternoon, taking them to the courthouse.

Aid from the Boy Scouts has also been enlisted and the scouts will meet at the courthouse Thursday at 4:30 p. m. and be in readiness for special calls which come in and need pickup service.

Members of the various auxiliaries of war veterans clubs and women of the Marion P.-T. A. units will assemble at the courthouse Thursday between 4 and 7 p. m. to arrange the flowers into individual bouquets. It is estimated that at least 600 bouquets are needed.

Circus Trip of Runaway Girl Ends in Marion

A 15-year-old Zanesville miss could not surpass the age-old urge to follow the trial of the calliope and sawdust so was picked up in Marion early this morning after following the Cole Brothers Circus here.

She was found by city police on Chester street near the Pennsylvania railroad tracks after they received a report from railroad officials that a young girl had been seen there. Apparently the show had lost none of its attraction, as she was planning to follow it to its next stop, police said.

She was held in Marion for her parents, who came here this morning to take her back to Zanesville.

Yellow Cab Prepares New Quarters; Cars To Be Dispatched by Radio.

The Yellow Cab Taxi Co. will move to its new location at 151 North State street about June 1, L. R. Lane Jr. and J. A. Raub, owners, have announced. Under construction now is a combination dispatcher's office and waiting room which will house the central transmitter for two-way radio communication between the cab dispatcher and individual cab drivers.

Use of the radio broadcast for directing cab drivers has been under trial at the company's old location on East Center street, and now will be made a permanent part of the company's operations.

At present six cabs are equipped with radio, and in time it is planned to have all 14 of the company's cabs outfitted. Mechanism which must be carried in individual cabs will be housed in trunk compartments.

Radio equipment will greatly speed cab service, the owners explained, because cab drivers will no longer need to drive to a central dispatcher's office to receive instructions. Radio cab service will be available 24 hours daily.

Eight New Cars

The company has recently obtained eight new cars built for taxi use.

In addition to the dispatcher's office and waiting room, being contructed of concrete block, a building at the rear of the property will be used as a garage.

Reformatory Breakers Also Abandon Truck Stolen in Yesterday's Flight.

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., May 27—Six youthful prisoners who seized a guard-instructor and escaped from the Ohio reformatory left him and their stolen truck early today at Grand Rapids, 28 miles southwest of Toledo.

The guard, David Robinson, 33, had been bound with wire, but released himself and telephoned the reformatory at 4:30 a. m. The truck apparently had run out of gasoline.

Grand Rapids is a community in Wood county, 80 miles northwest of Mansfield.

The state welfare department in Columbus announced that earlier reports that Robinson had been released near the village of Plymouth were erroneous.

Riding Stolen Car

Sheriff C. C. Marsh of Wood county said the six fugitives continued their flight in a heavy red sedan stolen from Frank Hoeder of Bowling Green, O., who was vacationing at his cottage on the Maumee river near Grand Rapids.

Robinson, the sheriff related, was forced to walk into Grand Rapids after releasing himself from his bonds. The fleeing reformatory inmates tore and broke wires and spark plugs on the abandoned truck.

The returned guard-inspector said the fugitives left him last night about 10 p. m.

The youths forced Robinson at the point of a knife to signal the gatekeeper to let the truck out on what the gate keeper thought was a work errand.

Arthur L. Glattke, superintendent of the prison, reported that Robinson appeared not to have been harmed. The prisoners overpowered the guard-instructor in the tin shop and forced him into the large prison truck.

The break occurred as a grand jury was making an inspection of the institution.

Reformatory authorities said the prisoners previously had been working outside and their ruse did immediately excite suspicion.

Escapees Listed

The escapees were listed as: James A. Westlake, 19, Newark, sentenced from there in September, 1944, to one to five years for armed robbery.

Galen Briscol, 20, Hamilton, sentenced there May 28, 1945, to one to 15 years for burglary and larceny.

Paul Vukovich, 18, Dayton, sentenced in Lucas county Sept. 27, 1946, to one to seven years for grand larceny.

Edward Fischer, 20, Jersey City, N. J., sentenced in Hamilton county, March 21, 1947, to one to 20 years for auto theft.

John Conta, 22, received from Cuyahoga county Nov. 22, 1946, to serve 10 to 25 years for robbery.

William Lucas, 17, received March 29, 1947, from Hamilton county to serve one to four years as a juvenile delinquent.

The reformatory sent officers in a truck to Grand Rapids to return guard Robinson.

New Prison Rules Made

The guard said the fugitives left him tied up in the truck at 4 a. m.

As the state highway patrol and sheriffs of northern Ohio searched for the six, who fled yesterday afternoon, the flight led reformatory officials to tighten regulations.

Superintendent Glattke announced that hereafter no prisoner would be permitted to drive a motor vehicle from the institution grounds.

In the future, he said, trucks on reformatory business will be driven by guards. If they are accompanied by prisoners, the prisoners must leave the vehicle and be checked while the car is driven outside the main gate. If the prisoners are found to be on legitimate business they will be permitted to reenter the truck after it leaves the grounds.

CONGRESS BORED BY TRUMAN ARMY PLEA

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 27—Congress showed little disposition today to work up a lather over President Truman's plea for military cooperation with other American nations.

The idea in both senate and house seemed to be that Mr Truman's bid for a law to make possible standardized military organizations, training methods and equipment throughout this hemisphere can wait a while

But leaders on both sides said it will be considered in due time

Meanwhile, two other major foreign policy bills—to permit American membership in the international refugee organization and to continue the state department's information program, waited in the house for the rules committee to grant priorities for flood debate.

The information service bill—pegged to selling American aims to the world by means of 'Voice of America' radio broadcasts and other activities—is first in line The rules committee will take another look at it tomorrow It may come before the house next week

The foreign affairs committee approved only yesterday the measure to shift to a United Nations agency the problem of caring for refugees and displaced persons in Germany and Austria

Poor Man's Philosopher Shakes Family Tree

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 27—Come home for a family reunion in the Middle West this time of year is a thing to make you feel years younger for a while.

It doesn't really last.

The reason is that the seasons keep on changing—but you don't. As trees grow on skyward, so do the children. And that's a hard thing to bring yourself to do. You don't tell your friends' brothers because a bit older and grayer, but you hesitate to advise you're in company. You think you should stay with the young folks as for a mother, sisters and aunts who are the center of the family—well, all of a sudden they seem to belong to a strange but familiar race. The dances they go in for are out of the familiar past, but most of them aren't the kind the up-to-date bunny hogs that their daughters go in for. That is, if you have daughters.

Hal Boyle

Unhappy Link

And there you are, a kind of unhappy link between two generations.

You know as the drinks and potato sandwiches go round that you are sort of midway between the generation that ruled the roost and the one that is about to take over. You kind of belong to both and don't quite belong to either. The old folks think you are too young to be one of them, and the young folks think you are just a little too square to belong to their group.

At least that is the way I felt the other day when I came home to a family reunion after some years.

The old folks hadn't changed much—I have in self-defense to put myself with them—but the young folks well! That was a different tribe.

Difference Shows Later

Of course, the difference didn't show up all at once. We had the usual big food-stuffing interlude. To me it was a 30 pound barbecued turkey supplied by Brother Eddie.

But when we were kids someone always tossed us a dollar bill and said for us to go to the nickel movies. This time the kids stayed around and eventually took over the family show.

Mom and Uncle Mike and Martin, Aunt Annie and Leora, told the old family stories, and then my sister-in-law Monica gave the kids their chance. She played the piano and Cousin Danny's boy sang "Adeste Fidelis," and all of a sudden we realized that after three generations in America—spent in digging coal, selling groceries and practising the law—the Boyle tribe had finally come up with a genuine tenor voice.

Not Sure of Newness

We thought that was something new, but when Uncle Mike struck up "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," and Brother Johnny, who got his hand shot loose from a machine gun in Okinawa, bounced up with the lead. Then we weren't quite sure whether we had something new in the family or not.

The trouble with our family is that they generally all have a lot of kids, and each dad or favorite uncle likes to think he's got a boy or girl spotted who has more on the ball than anyone else has ever brought to bear for America. In our slow Irish way we're a helluva a patriotic family, like an old Danish friend of mine who just patted me on the back—"Red" Ulricksen—and told me that Rex, his 23-year-old son, has made the college basketball team. The fact Rex flew a Navy torpedo bomber during the war doesn't make any difference. What American family had a boy who didn't?

Better Than Dad

Somebody a little enthusiastic for his years said, "Well, each generation we're in this country we turn out somebody a little better than his dad."

I thought that was pretty good—and so did the rest of us third-generation Americans in the family—until Uncle Martin Boyle, my father's youngest brother, turned to us and said:

"Your dad had four boys and you rule the roost now. But that's because your dad is gone. Which one of you actually thinks he's as good as your dad?"

And all the idea of progress went out of us and all we could think of was the dead man who once gave us life and was better than all of us put together in a week of country Sundays. We all have a hunk of him—but he had us all beat, take us one at a time or together that's what our sister says, and a girl's the best judge. Mom won't get in the argument.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Back Ache

Who among us has not at sometime or other been afflicted with severe pain in the back? Very few, yet all too often we put up with it while it lasts, and after it is over attribute it rather vaguely to "lumbago."

As a matter of actual fact such pain often indicates renal colic. This condition is caused by violent contractions of the muscular wall of the tube which leads from the kidney to the bladder. Doctors call this tube the ureter.

Painful contractions in this location are due to some blocking of the ureter and this, in turn, may be caused by many things. For example, a small stone or dried blood clot. On the other hand, bending or twisting of the ureter because of a movable kidney may be responsible.

Perhaps the most common cause of renal colic is the passing of a small stone through the narrow passageway of the ureter. These stones may be made up of various substances such as calcium oxalate or calcium carbonate, uric acid, or various phosphates. The exact cause for the formation of kidney stones is still not known. Diet, infections, and chemical changes in the urine all may play a part.

The pain produced by renal colic is perhaps one of the most agonizing types of pain from which people may suffer. The pain is deep in the back and may pass generally into the groin. The pain may be continuous for hours. There may be some tenderness or rigidity or stiffness of the muscles over the affected side. Usually some blood is present in the urine.

The diagnosis of renal colic is usually not difficult because the pain is so severe, and, often, there is blood present in the urine. An X-ray examination is of course valuable in making a diagnosis. Conditions which may produce symptoms like those of renal colic are appendicitis, gallstones, spasms of the bowel, and tumors of the kidney.

The treatment which Dr. Thomas L. Hardy, of Birmingham, England, advises, is the giving of a sedative or pain-relieving drug as soon as the diagnosis of renal colic has been made. Such substances as the nitrites may be of help since they tend to relax muscle spasm. They are taken under the directions of the physician.

Heat applied over the abdomen and the back may also be helpful in relieving the symptoms. The patient is kept in bed until the attack has completely cleared up. The giving of plenty of fluids, at least five pints in twenty-four hours, is advisable. In many instances, a small stone may pass through the ureter and into the urinary bladder, whereupon the pain clears up. In some cases, it may be necessary to perform an operation to remove the stones.

It is important, if a stone is passed, or removed, that it be analyzed to determine its chemical makeup so that regulation of the diet may be used in an effort to prevent the formation of other stones. For example, some kidney stones are made of oxalate. Food such as rhubarb, tomatoes, strawberries, spinach, and asparagus contain a high content of oxalate and should be avoided by a person with oxalate kidney stones. However, if they are eaten with a generous amount of fats, the oxalates form a soapy substance in the intestines which is not taken up by the body, and thus the oxalate-containing foods will cause no difficulty.

INSURE WITH KETTE TORRANCE AGENCY

METHODIST CHURCH CONFERENCE AT END

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 27 — The [illegible] Ohio annual conference of the Methodist church draws to a close today with the announcement of some 600 pastoral appointments.

In session last night, the conference adopted a resolution declaring that "We believe a cure for unsatisfactory conditions in the labor unions rests within labor, rather than by anti-labor legislation.

"We develop the fact," the resolution added, "that a small number of labor unions have been undemocratic, have permitted Communists to take control out of proportion to their numbers and have participated in jurisdictional disputes."

In another resolution, Methodist churches were urged to "support the School Improvement association of North College Hill (a Cincinnati suburb) in its suit to stay the school board from paying money to the community's Roman Catholic church and to contribute funds" to that cause.

A North College Hill parochial school operates under the community's board of education, which recently refused to grant school superintendent Dr. William A. Cook a new contract, a movie which precipitated a strike among junior and senior high school pupils.

During business sessions yesterday, the conference increased the minimum annual salary of its clerical members from $1,500 to $1,700. No change was made in the $100 annual allowance for each child of such members, up to three in number.

The Lynching Problem

THE lynching problem, contrary to a common impression, does not belong to the South. With few exceptions, the 48 states have a direct share in it too, and the attorney general of the United States says it belongs to the federal government.

Contrary to another common impression, lynching is not exclusively a problem in race relations. In the South and elsewhere, whites as well as Negroes have been lynched. It only happens that lynching is most common in the South as a manifestation of friction between undisciplined Negroes and undisciplined whites.

The lynching problem is, in other words, a problem of discipline. In most instances, the lynching victim has committed some crime. He has touched off inadvertently the fire of hatred always waiting to flame up between races that fear each other. One breakdown of discipline begets another breakdown—and the United States has another lynching incident to apologize for.

It is comfortable to blame the South, the whites, the Negroes, congress, poverty, or anything which helps to conceal what really is to blame—a population whose breakdowns of conduct are uncomfortably common, with lynchings only one part of the breakdown—and a minor part, compared with the staggering totals of other kinds of crime.

Britain Renews Conscription

AFTER considerable soul-searching, Great Britain has decided to extend compulsory military training five years, with all youths subject to a year's training when they reach 18. The Labor party had a record of traditional opposition to peacetime conscription, but in this, as in other problems, it finds it is confronted with a condition, not a theory.

Like the United States, Britain has had a tradition of voluntary military service. In the 14th century, parliament forbade the calling of militia to serve in foreign lands. The militia was put on a selective basis in 1757, on a voluntary basis in 1852.

Like the United States, Britain has a large number of citizens who hold peacetime conscription violates the right of conscience and that to maintain an army by such a method is Hitler's way. There also are those who object to the cost and claim it fosters imperialism.

Only 41 votes were cast against the measure in commons after the debate, in which Labor Minister Isaacs said, "There can be no individual liberty if national liberty is lost. To retain and maintain our national liberty, this bill is necessary."

Congress eventually is going to have to decide the matter of peacetime conscription in the United States. Its opponents will present persuasive arguments. Britain's Laborite house of commons has heard them all, yet, with world conditions as they are today, couldn't see its way clear to heed them.

Who Cares?

IF THE budget cutters in congress are keeping their ears to the ground (as good politicians are supposed to do) they are hearing nothing but rantings and ravings from disgruntled spenders and peevish minorities.

Who cares whether spending for the fiscal year that starts next July 1 is President Truman's figure of 37½ billion, the Republican figure of 31½ billion, or a split difference? Will the public appreciate the effort to level off public spending at a total three times what it was only 10 years ago? Or will the people take out revenge on legislators refusing to believe that the spenders must be given everything they want? In a word, is it good politics to try to save public money in 1947, or is it what most Democrats say it is—political suicide to question the sanctity of a presidential budget?

There are many members of congress who are wondering if anybody is interested any more in saving money. If you can think of someone, write your congressman.

Fiorello Is Piqued

FIORELLO LA GUARDIA is suing the National Home & Property Owners Foundation for $100,000, charging it libeled him by calling him a Communist and a disciple of revolutionary doctrines. Mr. LaGuardia's activities as chairman of the national fair rent committee were the basis of a statement issued by the Foundation.

The court that hears this case will have a nice exercise in divining the meaning of meaning. What may be communism and revolutionary doctrines to the Foundation may be orderly operation of a government of the Center to Fiorello LaGuardia, who, incidentally, has done his share of hurling dark impeachements.

There has been too much name-calling on both sides of the fence. Fascist, Communist, isolationist, tory, war-monger and fellow traveler are terms that have been recklessly bandied about. If we are to believe some hot-eyed partisans, we are all either Communists or fascists. The last small bands of liberals and conservatives were laid low about 1933 by a barrage of epithets. A few lawsuits of this type might bring them back.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Democrats' Move To Block Tax Cut Weakens.

WASHINGTON, May 27—You may have noticed in the news that the steam went out of the George-Byrd-Democratic move to put off the Republican tax reduction. The enthusiasm behind delay rather mysteriously eased down. Even Senator George, author of the proposed delay, conceded to a reporter in advance of the vote that he expected to be defeated today.

This may seem strange to you because the Democrats had their best issue of the season on this matter. For the first time they had the Democratic party together in one fold, the Georges and Byrds aligned with Mr. Truman and his treasury secretary. They could not muster that thorough unanimity even on the tax reduction proposal itself. Furthermore the Democrats had a good argument. They wanted delay until they could see how much the Republicans cut the Truman budget, claiming there should be no tax reducion until the figures on economies show justification.

The inside explanation of how the steam went down I hear is this.

Mr. Snyder and the treasury crowd got up some advance figures on expectations of June 15 income tax receipts. They thought such a survey would show a decline and put the Republicans in a deeper hole.

Try To Justify Veto

They reasoned that if they, the Democrats, could keep the tax reduction bill away from the White House until the second quarter tax receipts were announced, Mr. Truman could justify a veto.

Unfortunately their survey showed the opposite. The treasury actuaries are supposed to have found receipts will not only be unexpectedly up, but up beyond their latest budget estimates, thus affording more opportunity than was expected for tax reduction and debt retirement.

Certain top Republicans in congress found out about these figures and changed their strategy. It seems Messrs. Knudsen and Tabor, the house Republican fiscal directors, decided not to attempt to go through with their plan to hold the tax bill in conference after it passes the senate. You read of their plan in this spot last week. They thought that if they held the bill in conference after it passes the senate until the fiscal year closes June 30, the treasury figures would show full justification for their reduction bill, even though they had been unable to economize as much as they expected. Senator Taft was supposed to be willing.

But treasury estimators can get a fairly trustworthy line on such figures in advance. They know the state of business and individuals and can reckon at this late date (only about three weeks in adance of the second quarter payments and five weeks before the end of the fiscal year) fairly thoroughly as to what to expect.

Decides To Go Ahead

When the Republicans heard about these figures as I say, they changed position. Taft decided to press for immediate action despite his loss of Byrd and George and the socalled conservative Democrats. They could see there was no need to wait. They might just as well push the thing right up to Mr. Truman any old time at their convenience.

At least this is the story as I get it, and it fully explains the shennanigans you see in the news.

About a veto, the Republicans profess not to know. They apparently have no worthwhile information. But they do feel it will be more difficult for Mr. Truman to veto in the light of this new forthcoming statistical situation of the treasury. Most Republican leaders say privately they hope he does veto because they will fail of the necessary two-thirds majority in the senate only by a small margin, if they do fail, and then, in that case Mr. Truman and a few Democratic senators will have to take the public responsibility for blocking tax reduction—which would not aid their popularity with taxpayers.

My information all in all indicates Mr. Truman will sign the tax reduction and veto the labor union reform bill, but it is not direct or conclusive.

Oh Well, There's Always Smoke Signals

Congress currently is considering another hike in postage rates.

What are they trying to do, lick-quidate the national debt?

As far as the postoffice department is concerned, President Truman's hold-the-line message seems to have wound up in the Dead Letter Bureau.

If the price of stamps keeps increasing, the average citizen will be barred from the mails, along with Forever Amber.

Before long Western Union can change its slogan to, "Don't Write, Telegraph—It's Cheaper."

If postage rates continue to rise, collection agencies will have to send their first, second and Final Notice—and maybe even warning of intent to sue—in the same envelope.

Incidentally, some congressmen propose raising the price of postcards from one to two cents. That seems reasonable. The French variety have always sold for at least a quarter.

Will Truman Veto Labor Bill?

By RAYMOND MOLEY

TWO months ago, the question that this reporter most often met in his travels was: "Who will be the Republican candidate in 1948?" Now, it seems, that is of less interest, and a new question of more immediate importance has appeared: "Will Truman veto the labor bill?" Since this question has deep political implications, it may be useful to consider a possible answer.

It may be taken for granted that what the President does about a labor bill will be determined by 1948 political considerations. In that sense, his action will be political, just as the Republicans were seeking political ends in passing the Taft and Hartley bills. And such a political approach is as it should be, since the people have voted for labor relief, and politics consists of giving the people what they want.

Of course, no one can predict what the President will do. He himself has probably not yet decided. And he cannot decide until the house and senate have agreed on the terms of the bill. But considering all the political aspects of the case it is not hard to say what he should do. The President should enter a veto only if he is certain that congress will pass a bill over that veto.

Political Angles Listed

The political considerations which dictate this conclusion are these: The voters clearly indicated in 1946 that there is an overwhelming demand for labor legislation. Congressmen and senators were elected everywhere on platforms promising revision of present labor laws. If the President kills the hope of revision, he will in 1948 bear a heavy and dangerous responsibility. It is quite probable that a Republican president could be elected on that issue alone. Hence, it is to Truman's interest to see that something is passed.

All this is based on the assumption that something like the senate bill will be enacted. The President would surely veto the Hartley bill, regardless of consequences. That is because he could make a strong case against such a severe and drastic piece of legislation. But it would be very difficult to get reasonable people to accept an argument against the Taft bill. Only the diehards voted against it in the senate.

There will be some political advisors who will urge Truman to veto any labor bill, regardless of the subsequent outcome in congress. "Their reasoning is that Roosevelt always assumed that the balance of power was held by the minority of five or six million who are far to the left. Hence, he played for their votes, regardless of the moderate attitude of the rest of the Democratic party. That larger group was held for Roosevelt by tradition, by self-interest and by the state of foreign affairs.

Different Situation

But Truman has no war emergency to argue as did Roosevelt in 1940 and 1944. His bent is not radical. The left wing is already divided and is, in fact, against the President. Truman must, if he is to be elected, win moderate votes on the ground that he is a moderately conservative man. And he must realize that his strong stand against John L. Lewis is what checked the decline in his popularity.

But even a futile veto would hold in line for Truman the labor people who oppose the bill. Those people would vent their wrath on the Republicans.

Others, who want a bill passed, would, by 1948, forget the veto, since it would not be decisive.

Army Promotion Revised

THE old titles of staff sergeant and technical sergeant will be abandoned by the army Jan. 1 under a new system of promotions for enlisted men and warrant officers.

The plan makes two important changes in promotion procedure. It puts advancement in the upper non-commissioned grades on a basis of competition within an army or theater of operations and makes retention of grade dependent upon meritorious service, with demotion the penalty for "goofing off," which is the current army slang for malingering.

Promotions through the first four grades, private through staff sergeant, which now becomes sergeant first class, will be made by the unit commander on the basis of standard competitive examinations. Advancement to technical sergeant, which becomes senior sergeant, will be made through competitive examination within the army or theater. Promotions to master sergeant will made only through the War Department on a service-wide basis. Men promoted to sergeant first class may take a test to determine their qualifications for reserve officers' commissions.

Warrant officer grades will be redesignated in four ranks, instead of junior and senior grades. A warrant officer first grade will receive pay equivalent to that of major.

Defense Bill Is Best Possible

By WALTER LIPPMANN

OF the bill (H. 758) for a national defense establishment, it may be said that this is now the best possible bill because it has been agreed to by the civilians, the soldiers, sailors, and airmen who will have to live under it and make it work. This is no shotgun marriage. Nor is it a marriage arranged by the fond parents who may think they know better than the bride and groom. It is no scheme which is to be imposed upon armed forces by outside "efficiency experts" or blueprint makers. Nor is it a scheme invented by the military politicians of one branch of the armed forces.

It is the product of prolonged debate by our proven military leaders. The debate has ended in an agreement. The fact that the War department and the Navy department, that Patterson and Forrestal, Eisenhower and Nimitz and Spaatz are agreed that this is the bill they want is a compelling reason for favoring this bill. There is no use passing another bill, even if some one prefers it, that they do not all agree to. For the whole object of the legislation is to increase the harmony of the various arms. The fact that they have harmonized themselves and are agreed on this bill is the best practical reason for believing that the bill will promote harmony.

The reason that they have been brought to agreement is that they succeeded in thinking out clearly what is the real issue. It is that in peace and in war the president, as commander in chief must of necessity "unify" the armed forces. The question is not whether they shall be "unified." It is whether the president is to be enabled to know what he is doing when he acts as commander in chief.

Increases Effectiveness

This bill is in essence a bill to make the president a more effective commander in chief. It is not a bill about how the navy, the marine corps, the air corps, the infantry, the armored divisions, the medical services, and what not, are to be composed, equipped, recruited, trained, officered, paid, fed, clothed. It is in the last analysis a bill about how the president in the White House is to make the decisions which as president and commander in chief, he must make about the whole complicated business of national defense.

The bill creates a secretary of national defense, who is in substance the president's deputy in the whole field of military affairs. Below the deputy there are a secretary of the army, a secretary of the navy, and a secretary of the air force. The president's deputy does what the president now has to do — he promotes agreements and decides differences among the various branches. He gives his whole time to this task whereas the president can, of course, give only a little of his time to it. He is supposed to be a man of eminence in his own right. Probably he will be. For this particular appointment will be scrutinized very carefully by Congress, and armed forces, the veterans and the general public.

Yet the decisions of the deputy are not final. The three secretaries under him, each normally the special advocate and guardian of his own service, have the right to appeal from the decisions of the deputy to the president. But in deciding the appeal the president will be so to speak, the Supreme Court and not the court of first instance. Thus the appeals will reach him in a form where the real issues have been elucidated.

The bill does not, therefore, as some may think or fear, merge into one featureless mass all the fighting men whose traditions are distinct because they have become distinguished in glorious actions over so long a time. That kind of merger would in the name of economic efficiency destroy that military efficiency, which depends finally on the martial spirit of a fighting organization.

Identity Not Lost

Nor does the bill submerge any of the branches and the specialties, each of which has, of course, its own pleaders, its zealots, and even its fanatics. On the contrary, this bill is designed to enable the president to judge as wisely as systematic combined advice makes possible, how the demands of each service and branch can be balanced against the national supply of money and materials and men, an made to fit the political and strategic interests of the nation.

The president now has to make all these decisions anyway. The constitution requires him to make them. The practical administration of government compels him to make them.

But as things are now he has no systematic and orderly way of all the facts, has interpreted and knowing whether he has heard weighed them fairly and wisely. So his decisions are spasmodic, are improvised, are casual, are guess work, and may be amateurish.

It is this weakness at the very top of the chain of command that the bill is meant to correct. It might, therefore, be described not as a merger, which it certainly is not, or as a unification bill, a term which begs the question, but as a bill to equip the commander in chief to do his job.

On Exercise

By TRUMAN TWILL

The only sales resistance we've ever really shown is to all propositions for improving our health by exercise.

Once mroe, the sirens of the body beautiful are trying to lure us into knocking ourself out prematurely with one or more of their silly games. They are brandishing golf clubs, swishing tennis rackets, singing the praises of handball, swimming, shooting at things with popguns and so on. Joy through exercise is the ultimate goal of being alive, they argue. Nuts.

We tried golf last summer, and all it did was to make us peevish over the futility of trying to hit so small an object with so awkward an implement. If we couldn't invent an easier way to play a game than that, we'd never have the nerve to ask anyone else to try. Tennis is a game for bounding boys, not men with dependent relatives.

Swimming is a darned poor substitute for a shower bath, and shooting is for those who get a kick out of loud noises and destruction. We cheerfully relinquish our rights in these pursuits and all others involving muscular exertion to those who get a bang out of them. We ask in return only that they relinquish all concern in our present physical being and future physical welfare. We'll get along, thanks.

A man gets all the exercise he needs to keep his blood circulating by walking to and from the drinking fountain. Certainly no man who cleans wallpaper and washes woodwork in house-cleaning time once a year can feel deprived of an opportunity to stretch his muscles and crack his joints.

A ride on a crowded bus is the equivalent of a session on the handball court. Half an hour with a lawn mower, or 15 minutes with a snow shovel can do as much damage to an ordinary citizen as a whole afternoon of tennis, or a swim in icy water.

As for the recreation supposedly involved in these pursuits, an attentive non-exerciser can lift a load off his mind and be as relaxed as a wornout girdle listening, to the members of the exercise cult talk about their sweaty exertions. He can pant with them in imagination and share their exhaustion in the hearty pursuit of physical fitness.

And at last, when the thing is done and the cry of "Well played, old man!" has echoed across the field, the pool, the locker room or the barroom, your non-exerciser can tumble into bed for some much-needed rest, tired but happy over all the foot-pounds of energy he didn't have to work off the hard way.

By The Associated Press

LONDON—A "pauper" who died at Capetown left $200,000 in gilt edged stocks, it has been revealed here. He was Alexander McIntosh, 77, a bachelor who lived a lonely "poverty stricken" life in a dismal cellar in the poor quarter of Capetown. He wore tattered clothes and used to hunt in street refuse bins for trifles of value.

He collected cigar and cigaret ends from gutters. It is understood he left $2,000 to a Baptist church in Fife, Scotland, and the remainder of his wealth to brothers and sisters in Britain. McIntosh, a former linotype operator and one-time active trade unionist became miserly after retirement.

Purging Collaborationists

By The Associated Press

MANILA—Singh Hihla Awtar, alleged to have been the vice president of the anti-British Indian Independence League organized here during the Japanese occupation, is facing deportation charges as the result of the testimony which one of his countrymen gave United States Army intelligence officers.

Meanwhile the deportation board of the Philippine government is hearing a case against four members of the German Maack family. The prosecution showed the court an advertisement of the Maack Company published after the fall of Bataan captioned: "To the officers and men of the victorious Japanese Imperial Forces—for further successes."

FORMER OHIO HOUSE SPEAKER STRICKEN

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 27 — J. Freer Bittinger of Ashland, O., who figured in a dramatic speakership election in the house of the state legislature in 1935, died here yesterday at the age of 61.

Bittinger was striken at Beulah Park, where he had been employed recently as a cashier, and died in an ambulance enroute to Mt. Carmel hospital.

For many years prominent in Democratic politics, Bittinger served as chairman of the Democratic state executive committee from 1940 to 1942.

He was elected speaker at a time when the house was controlled by Republicans with 68 seats to 67 for the Democrats. But the house divided on the final vote and elected Bittinger who served as speaker during Gov. Martin L. Davey's first term. Bittinger was praised by Davey as the "best speaker the house ever had."

While serving as auditor of Ashland county, Bittinger campaigned unsuccessfully for the nomination to congress in 1922. He was nominated in 1924 and 1926 but was defeated in the election.

In 1928 he was one of only 11 Democrats elected to the legislature. He served as minority floor leader in the house in 1931.

He is survived by his widow, a son, Ritchie Bittinger, and a daughter, Mary Arminda Bittinger.

Arrangements were made to take the body today to Ashland for funeral services and burial.

THE NATION TODAY

Republicans, Democrats Ready For Battle Over Health Bills

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, May 27—Two national health bills now in congress are of vast importance to a great many people in this country.

One was offered by Democrats, the by Republicans. The two are very different.

A senate committee has started hearings on them. It's a late start. Most expect congress to vote either into law this year.

James Marlow

Action may come in 1948 that's a presidential election year and a national health program would make a great campaign issue.

The fight over national health bills is an old one. This is the story to date.

The Democrats, led by Senators Wagner of New York and Murray of Montana, have been offering health bills in congress since 1939.

Nothing Ever Happens

Except for committee hearings, at which hundreds of people talked for and against the bills, nothing has happened. Congress hasn't voted.

President Truman, in 1945 and again only a week ago, urged congress to lay down a long-range health program.

Now, with national health becoming a bigger issue, the Democrats and Republicans have offered separate bills.

These Republican senators offered one bill: Taft, Ohio; Ball, Minnesota; Smith, New Jersey; Donnell, Missouri.

These Democratic senators offered the other bill: Wagner, Murray; Pepper, Florida; Chavez, New Mexico; Taylor, Idaho; McGrath, Rhode Island.

What Bills Would Do

Roughly and briefly, this is what the bills would do:

The Democratic bill—

This would provide pre-paid medical care for most Americans through a 1½ per cent tax each on employes, employers, and self-employed.

They'd pay nothing for care beyond the money taken from them already by the tax. Doctors and hospitals would send their bills to the government.

The Democrats think the government would take in $3,000,000,000 a year from the tax to pay the bills.

The patients would get doctor's care, being free to choose their own doctor, plus hospital care, and so on.

Joining Not Compulsory

Doctors and hospitals wouldn't have to join if they wanted no part of it. They could stay strictly in private practice.

This Democratic bill, with some changes in the old Wagner-Murray bill, often called by opponents the "socialized medicine" bill.

This is the bill which the American Medical association opposed, although not all doctors are against it.

The Republican bill—

This would provide medical care for people who couldn't pay for it.

The states, with the help of $200,000,000 from the government a year and putting up $200,000,000 of their own, would run this program.

Help States Do More

So, in short, it would help the states do more than they're doing now. Of this country's 140,000,000 people, how many would it take care of?

Republican Senator Smith says about 20 per cent, or 28,000,000. Democratic Senator McGrath says only four per cent, or 5,600,000.

Smith, calling the Republican measure a "voluntary insurance bill," says the American Medical association approves it in "principle."

The Democrats call the Republican bill strictly "charity" and say their own is better because people, taxed, would be paying for what they got.

The Republicans call the Democratic bill "compulsory" insurance.

There the fight, a big fight, stands. It's coming up too late in this session of congress to be fought out this year.

OFFICER ACCUSED OF STEALING JAP GOLD

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, May 27—The arrest of William Kenrick Evans, 38, former army lieutenant-colonel, on charges of appropriating and selling for about $100,000 a supply of gold coins confiscated from Japanese on Formosa was announced yesterday by U. S. Attorney James M. Carter.

Carter said the case would be submitted to a federal grand jury June 4.

He said Evans denied selling the 2,000 coins, contending that he turned them over to Chinese military authorities. Evans was a member of the first advance party which went into Formosa at the end of the war.

Evans was arrested at his Santa Barbara home and arraigned before Commissioner J. V. Wood there yesterday. He was bound over for action by the Los Angeles federal grand jury.

The U. S. attorney gave this summary of the case:

Evans received from the Japanese eight boxes containing gold coins. Four of them reached Chinese authorities safely. The remainder, consisting of the 2,000 coins—each weighing about an ounce and about the size of a U. S. quarter—disappeared. Ninety-seven per cent have since been recovered, from Shanghai banks and gold merchants.

Carter said Evans is accused of embezzlement from the United States and allied powers, but that the charges do not allege that he brought either the unlocated coins or any proceeds into this country.

airfield installations at the request of the late President Roosevelt.

"Didn't you occupy an adjoining hotel room with Murray Garsson and have a joint sitting room?" Paisley asked.

"I don't remember, possibly we had adjoining rooms," May said.

"Did you take Murray Garsson with you?"

"No. I didn't take him. He was on the plane but so were 15 or 20 other people."

May said he spent three days in Havana. When he returned, he said, he reported to President Roosevelt and, as a result, a new airfield was built in Cuba.

Program of Music Presented for P.-T.A.

"Music Through the Years" was the title for the annual song festival of the Glenwood school presented at a P.-T.A. meeting at the school auditorium Thursday night. A short business session preceded the program, and a past president's pin was presented Mrs. Harmon Cleveland, retiring president. Pupils of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades gave the program under direction of Miss Marguerite Gehring, with Miss Elizabeth Edgar as accompanist.

Divided into three parts, the festival featured first singing of music of the eighteenth and nineteeth centuries, written by Brahms, Gluck and Offenbach, by the fifth grade. Freddie Garver served as historian. The fourth grade sang songs of the early twentieth century written by Strickland and Mana-Zucca, with Marilyn Long as historian. Sixth graders sang popular songs of today. Max Trent was narrator and introduced each group. During intermissions, a quartet composed of Peggy Rinderle, Marilyn Tanner, Arlene Cleveland and Elaine Browning sang, and sixth grade boys presented a novelty number. The stage was built and decorated by Miss Mary Queen, Miss Esther Westlake and Ray Adams, and Miss Westlake was in charge of costuming and makeup.

French Premier Pleads For Strike Cancellation

By The Associated Press

PARIS, May 27—Premier Paul Ramadier appealed to French gas and electrical union workers today to call off their proposed 24-hour strike tomorrow in the public interest.

"I speak to you in all friendliness," he said in a broadcast. "Don't strike!"

Ramadier emphasized that the power industry is nationalized and told the workers in a broadcast: "Your labor does not serve to increase capitalist profits. You are in the direct service of the nation."

He made his appeal amid signs that the union of 85,000 workers, seeking a 15 per cent wage increase, was retreating from its original firm stand against the government, which has ordered the plants requisitioned.

Milwaukee Police Still Hunt Girl's Assailant

DEMOCRATS SEEK TO BROADEN TAX SLASH

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 27—Democrats, beaten in their drive to delay senate action on tax cutting, sought today to broaden the Republican-backed bill to whittle $4,000,000,000 a year off individual income levies.

With G.O.P. leaders pressing for passage this week of their measure trimming present tax rates by from 10.5 to 30 per cent, Senator McClellan (D-Ark) called up his amendment to spread the so-called "community property" formula to all states.

Under this formula, a man and wife can divide their income, even if the wife doesn't earn anything, and take advantage of the lower rates.

Chairman Millikin (R-Colo) of the senate finance committee predicted this proposal will be beaten, although he conceded it is "attractive" to many members who have been hearing from their constituents about the tax advantages of living in the nine "community property" states.

Millikin told a reporter its adoption would cost $750,000,000 in addition to the $4,000,000,000 provided in the pending bill. Noting the matter is being studied by the house ways and means committee for possible inclusion in a new tax bill next year, he expressed hope that congress will put off that phase of tax reduction until then.

Senator Butler (R-Neb), a finance committee member who has been interested in having the community property proposal installed in federal law, put the revenue loss at $1,000,000,000 yearly.

And congress can't afford to add to the tax cuts this year, he said in a statement.

A proposal by Senator Lucas (D-Ill) which would delay the effectiveness of any tax reduction until Jan. 1 also was in line for senate consideration.

Mrs. Truman's Condition Varies, Now Holding Own

By The Associated Press

GRANDVIEW, Mo., May 27—President Truman said today that his mother was "holding her own" after a slight setback last night.

While Mrs. Martha E. Truman had "a bad night," Mr. Truman said, she came out of the setback in fairly good shape and at 10:45 a. m. was sleeping comfortably.

President Truman was quoted by Press Secretary Charles G. Ross as believing his 94-year-old parent was "holding her own" at the time.

The President has abandoned all thoughts of returning to Washington unless there is a definite and sustained improvement. His physician feels that the President's presence here is the principal source of her will to live.

LIONS CONSIDER SCHOOL PROJECT

Club To Act on Purchase of Device To Test Hearing.

At the Lions club weekly luncheon meeting Monday at Hotel Harding, the special projects committee presented a partial report to the club members on civic projects which are to be considered.

The outstanding project was the proposed purchase of an audiometer to be used in schools to test hearing defects of pupils. Dr. Dan Brickley Jr. explained the use of the audiometer and told the club that if through such a project a machine was made available in the city, it would be a great help in detecting hearing loss and in enabling a diagnosis for later treatment and possible cure of deafness. At the present time, a research is being conducted at Ohio State university to test such machines now being manufactured.

The club members will vote on the purchase of the audiometer at a later date.

Robert Scott and Paul Frye, members of the club, attended the Ohio state convention of Lions International held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Toledo. At the convention, the local club's weekly publication, "Lion Tales," won a second place award in the district competition. Robert Ziegler of Bucyrus was elected deputy governor of District 13-E in which the Marion club is located. M. C. Baum of Elyria was elected the district governor.

An announcement was made of a board meeting to be held Monday, June 2, at 7:30 p. m. at Hotel Harding. At the club meeting next Monday noon, election of officers will be held and E. E. Holt, superintendent of schools, will talk on the building program of the Marion city schools.

J. L. Adams of the Euclid club was a guest.

SLAYING

the slain Barbara Smith, had been the object of a state-wide hunt since another of the Smith's 14 children found the bodies.

Abandons Father's Car

Sgt. Seim said Terpenning told of going to Port Huron, Mich., about 36 miles east of here. There he abandond his father's car and set out hitchhiking. He rode to Detroit in a truck and got a second lift to the vicinity of Erie.

Norman Dombrosky, a passing motorist from Erie, gave the youth a ride and began questioning him when he noted his resemblance to a broadcast description of the wanted youth.

Sgt. Seim said Dombrosky told him that Terpenning admitted he was "wanted for murder" in Michigan.

The driver immediately proceeded to the office of Justice R. O. Stevens in suburban Toledo where he turned the boy over to authorities. He was taken to the Toledo county jail and then back to Erie.

Shot In Head

The four Smith children were found dead of bullet wounds in the backs of their head. The boy was about 100 feet away from the girls, officers said, as though shot down while fleeing.

Two physicians examined the girls and said there was no evidence of rape.

Another Smith child, 19-year-old Ella Mae, left the supper table to look for the children and ran screaming back a short time later to report her discovery of their bodies.

Sheriff Leslie Mathews of Lapeer county, said the state police laboratory at East Lansing had verified that the fatal bullets come from a .22 caliber rifle found near the Terpenning farm home.

THRICE-CONVICTED KILLER ON PROBATION

By The Associated Press

GREENUP, Ky., May 27—John Toncray, 61, Maysville, Ky., carpenter convicted on manslaughter charges three times but who never had served any part of his final sentence, was on probation today.

Circuit Judge S. Sowards yesterday granted the probation, to be effective five years, on petition of citizens.

Toncray, a former storekeeper at Tolloboro, Lewis county, was charged with the slaying of John Dale of Lima, O., operater of a traveling medicine show.

Dale was slain in 1940 near Toncray's Tollsboro store, near Vanceburg, after the merchant and medicine man exchanged words during a show performance.

Toncray's first two convictions in Lewis county and sentences of five and six years, respectively, were set aside by the Kentucky court of appeals. His last conviction and sentence occurred here last March 18. The trial was transferred here at the request of his counsel.

Toncray testified he returned after the medicine show to apologize to Dale but that the latter threatened him. Toncray said he shot in self defense. He had been free on $5,000 bond pending another appeal.

Weary of Jail, Carp Spearsman Pays Fine

By The Associated Press

CIRCLEVILLE, O., May 27—Robert Chester, 45-year-old Williamsport farmer, wearied of jail yesterday—so, he paid $51.20 for two carp and went home.

Chester, who developed the theory carp were not fish and were inedible, chose to go to jail May 24 rather than pay the money for spearing the two carp with a pitchfork, in the Scioto river.

Although he still asserted the arrest was an injustice, Chester said he had abandoned plans to appeal the high cost of carp.

A Weak, Run-Down Feeling Is Often A Warning

That The Red-Blood Is Getting Low

If you do not feel like your real self, do not have the urge to be up and doing, why not check-up on your blood strength? Look at the palms of your hands, your fingernails, your lips, the lobes of your ears—are they pale and off color?

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must Beep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that S&S Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the S&S Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, S&S Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty. Thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on S&S Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. S&S Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Associated Press Chief Cited For Fight Against News Bars

EVANSTON, Ill, May 27—Kent Cooper, executive director of The Associated Press, was awarded an honorary degree yesterday by the Medill School of Journalism of Northwestern university for his leadership in the fight to break down barriers to news communication between nations

Similar honors for aggressive championship of press freedom, editorial courage and advancement of journalism in the last quarter century were conferred on six newspaper publishers and a magazine editor at a convocation marking the 25th anniversary of the school

Honorary doctor of laws degrees went to Cooper, Col Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, John S Knight, president and publisher of the Chicago Daily News, and Roy A Roberts, president of the Kansas City (Mo) Star company

KENT COOPER

Other Degrees Conferred

Thomas J White president of the Chicago Herald-American, and Richard J Finnegan, publisher of the Chicago Times, were awarded the honorary degree of doctor of journalism, Marshall Field, president and publisher of the Chicago Sun, the degree of doctor of humane letters and Ben Hibbs editor of the Saturday Evening Post the degree of doctor of literature

The citation accompanying Cooper's degree read

'A founder of The Associated Press organizations of South America, Great Britain, Belgium Denmark Norway, Sweden and Germany originator of The Associated Press wirephoto system Since World War I he, more than any other man, has led the fight to break down the barriers to news communications between nations to the end that press and radio may be able to promote understanding between peoples instead of the misunderstanding that may lead to war"

In a talk prepared for the convocation Kenneth F Olson dean of the Medill school, said that a nose for news' no longer measured a man's adequacy for a career as a newspaperman because of the intricacy of such current problems as government, finance and business, labor minorities, housing standards of living crime, juvenile delinquency education health science and industry He added

"It was a simple world in which Horace Greeley Charles Dana and James Gordon Bennett ruled as giants of American journalism Today if any one of these men could return to this earth, he would not last a week as editor of any of Chicago's newspapers'

Olson predicted the day was not far off when 'most programs in journalism will be six years and when most of our schools of journalism will be graduate professional schools'

Herbert Favors, Rep. Bender Opposes Strip Mine Controls

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O, May 27—The paradox of Gov Thomas J Herbert and Congressman-at-Large George Bender advocating opposite action on a bill to regulate Ohio strip mining confronted state representatives today.

Members of Cuyahoga county's delegation to the general assembly said Herbert told them at a gathering in the governor's mansion that he favored enactment of strip mine legislation

Some of the same Cuyahoga county representatives reported they had been contacted by Bender and asked to vote against the White-Berry-Anglin measure to control coal stripping

The strip mine proposal was one of several in the 'hot potato' category which were up for house action

Another was a measure to permit Christian Science practitioners to charge for their services Similar proposals have failed to get through other legislatures but have occasioned prolonged debate

Senate Balks on Bonus

The house also was confronted with senate refusal to concur in an amendment to the veterans bonus resolution for an additional cent-a-pack tax on cigarets to help finance the $300,000,000 program

By a vote of 29 to 1 the senate rejected the change which house sponsors said would produce $7 500 000 a year and obviate the need of an extra real estate tax to pay for bonuses up to $400 to approximately 800,000 veterans

Spokesmen said the house probably would insist on the tax, which would boost the state cigaret levy to 3 cents a pack, and ask for a house-senate conference committee to agree on a compromise

The senate passed and sent to the house measures to give county commissioners average 20 per cent salary increase, to boost the base pay of county prosecutors, and to permit two counties to operate an airport jointly

Own Salary Hike Introduced

Introduced in the senate were bills to add Lawrence, Jackson, Bethlehem and Sugar Creek townships to the jurisdiction of Massillon's municipal court, increase salaries of state legislators from $2 000 to $3,600 annually plus $7 for each day of general assembly sessions, and to allow the state to sell fish hatchery sites in Crawford Fairfield, Cuyahoga, Defiance Madison and Miami counties

The house completed passage of measures to provide increased retirement benefits for public employes teachers and school workers Emergency clauses make them effective upon signing by the governor

They provide monthly increases of $1 for each year of service to a maximum of $25 for public employes already retired and for those retiring after 10 years service, basic boosts of $180 a year

Retired teachers will receive coverage increases of $17 to $25 monthly and teachers retiring after 10 years of service will get basic boosts of $15 a month Cost of the changes was estimated at more than $1 700 000 annually

Also approved by the house were measures to allow the division of aid for the aged to pay hospital and medical bills of pensioners up to $200, to fix a $300 maximum fine for violating county building regulations and to provide for in-service training of teachers of handicapped pupils

Adopt UN Resolution

A resolution urging immediate strengthening of the United Nations charter as a means of halting future aggression in any part of the world was adopted by the house after a five-minute debate

Copies of the proposal by Reps Herbert S Miller and Thomas Rose, both Butler county Republicans, will be sent to President Truman and members of the Ohio congressional delegations

Consideration of the Middletown plan for world peace was advocated in the desolution which was approved on a voice vote

The senate liquor committee reported out a bill requiring that permit quotas be based on the federal census instead of population estimates and sent back to the special investigating body a proposal for training enforcement agents along state highway patrol lines for a study of suggested revisions

Mohammedans first used coffee to keep awake during long religious ceremonies

Dog Gets Diploma As Boy Shoots Self For Lack of One

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, May 27—Spot, a wooly black and white dog devoted both to his master and to school in suburban Wall, Pa., was the proud owner of a grammar school diploma today

But in another section of southwestern Pennsylvania a broken-hearted boy who wanted a diploma more than anything else in the world lay gravely wounded because he wouldn't get one

Jimmy Franks, 14-year-old eighth grade student, was found lying in the hallway of the Bobtown High school yesterday with a bullet in his chest and a 32-20 pistol clenched in one hand.

Jimmy, son of a coal miner, had to drop out of school last November because his mother was critically ill and he was needed at home to take care of several younger children

A teacher, Geraldine Donley said Jimmy, a bright boy, grieved because he wanted to enter high school and continue his education

The hard blow fell when Jimmy was told his many absences would make it impossible for him to take the entrance examination Yesterday was the last day of school, and the boy's hopes died.

During a recess Jimmy slipped into the school auditorium—where graduations are held It was too much for him the gun thundered trailing blood, he crawled out to the hallway away from the setting of the graduation scene he thought would never be his

Jimmy's condition was reported 'fair" at a Waynesburg hospital today

TELLS OF ENORMOUS NEWSPRINT PROFITS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 27—Samuel Galewitz, a New York newsprint dealer, told house members today of a newsprint deal that netted him more than $800,000 but firmly maintained that was not "profiteering."

Galewitz, vice president of the Canton Paper company, testified before the house committee investigating the paper supply situation that he bought 10,500 tons of newsprint at $82.50 a ton and resold it for $$160 a ton.

He said the man he sold the newsprint to resold it to the Miami Herald for as high as $180.

"There is such a thing in this country, I hope, as decent business ethics," Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio), chairman of the committee, commented.

"You and I know," he told Galewitz, "that $160 a ton was an exorbitant price, far above the regular going price.

"We think it is time the American people know who is playing fair come on the up and up.

"I think you are not."

Galewitz protested:

"We felt we weren't profiteering. I believe it (the $160 resale) was a fair and reasonable price."

Galewitz said he charged a "normal profit," adding "a normal profit is whatever you can get—whatever the market will bear."

He said he sold the newsprint to William K. Friedman, New York, who he said, was a small magazine publisher, and Friedman resold the paper to the Miami Herald.

Balsam Bough Bedding

QUEBEC, P. Q. . . . (1947) . . . Do you prefer a lazy, "organized" vacation with the best resort amusements and all the comforts of home, or an adventure, "away from it all"? A spring mattress or a bed of balsam boughs? Central heating or the glow of a campfire under the moon?

They are provided with facilities for every kind of outdoor and indoor fun. You may golf and play tennis, swim, sail and ride, or match your skill against the wiles of gamy fish which lie in wait to test your patience and your bait. The glass-clear waters of this region abound in various kinds of trout, pike, pickerel (dore) and black bass.

But if it is a touch of the pioneer life you want, Quebec's rivers afford exciting avenues for many canoe trips and none is more lovely than the 128-mile stretch from Maniwaki down the wooded Gatineau to Hull, opposite Ottawa, Canada's beautiful capital. Whatever your choice of vacations (and they are not mutually exclusive) the Province of Quebec can provide it in exquisite or magnificent surroundings that offer relaxation for the body and beauty for the spirit.—Adv.

Who Can Make A Tree Behave?

By The Associated Press

HILO, Hawaii—Old time Hawaiians say it is bad luck to cut down a coconut tree and A. J. Kimi had been warned against it. As head of the grounds committee at the American Legion clubhouse Kimi ordered six trees cut down, partly because the nuts were damaging the clubhouse roof, partly with a view to beautifying the grounds. Since then a honey bee venture, a trial at raising cantaloupes and a geese-farming business have back-fired for Kimi. Orchids, which became his pride and joy, were growing by the hundreds for Kimi—until last week. Vandals paid him a visit and what they didn't carry off they wrecked. All that was left was one basket of the flowers and one bunch wrapped as protection against the weather. "I wonder what's next?" asks Kimi, as he ponders the possibility there's going to be one kahuna (evil spirit) called down upon him for each of the six coconut trees he had cut down.

ROSIN'S 2-HITTER, MAXHIMER'S HOMER DUMP DODGERS 8-2

Cub Hurler Has No-Hit Shutout Over Zanesville Until Eighth

By JIM DARBY

Bill Rosin had a date with fame last night at Lincoln park. But he was jilted.

Until two men were out in the top of the eighth inning he pitched no-hit baseball. Then the strain told and he allowed two Zanesville hits good for two runs, winning his fourth triumph against one defeat 8-2.

His mates bunched seven hits off starter Privette and relief-r Field to clinch the game at the start.

A crowd of 1,095 watcher him flirt with baseball immortality.

Tonight the Cubs will entertain the league leading Zanesville crew in a doubleheader, first game to start at 6:30 p. m. Ed Witowski and Marion's John Edington have been nominated as starting pitchers.

Maxhimer Gets Homer

When he had been tabbed for duty with Marion but had not yet appeared on the local scene, Dwight Maxhimer was touted by Cub scouts as a ballplayer capable of hitting a line drive over the centerfield wall. Last night he proved it.

In the second inning with mates on every base he smacked the ball over the fence, just a little to right of dead centerfield.

Hollingshead and Wiebel started the Marion show in the first inning with walks. A wild pitch advanced them to second and third. Then Mr. Runs Batted In, alias Manager Nelson Burbrink, brought them home with a single to right field.

Rosin Hits Double

In the second frame, John Smith, who played third base for Marion in 1944, walked to start the big inning. Rosin brought him in with a double to centerfield. Hollingshead singled to score Rosin.

Wiebel got a single, Hollingshead holding third. Bobzean walked to fill the bases and set the scene for Maxhimers terrible clout.

Zanesville threatened in the third and fifth innings but Rosin, adding to his eventual total of 14 strikeouts, put out the fires.

In the eighth Colandro walked, Taylor struckout and Wiebel hauled down Belacastro's belt to right field, which up until then looked like the biggest threat to Rosin's no-hitter.

Knew Fame Near

Rosin had known he had a classic in the making from the fourth inning on. Dabek spoiled it with a clean single to left field which advanced Colandro to second. Then DeArmond doubled to bring both runners in and for Rosin of a shut out.

The game was played under Manager Clay Bryant's protest from the fourth inning on.

Burbrink, on first duty by a fielder's choice, started to steal second and was awarded the base, although tagged along the base path when Field committed a balk. The fiery Bryant thought otherwise and protested the game.

The Lima Terriers lost on their home grounds to the Newark Browns 3 to 1. It was a pitching duel with Bill Woolard of Newark allowing seven hits and pitcher Henry of Lima allowing eight. Four Lima errors, however, contributed to the Browns' scoring.

At Muncie, Springfield's Giants and the Packers battled through 10 innings before a double by Bill McCarty broke the 4-4 deadlock and set of the Giants' six run rally that won 10 to 4.

Richmond, Newark And Springfield Win OSL Contests

What's Bruin?

Four Marion players were cut loose from the local squad to meet last night's midnight cutdown deadline.

Pitchers John Tate and Ray Alman and third baseman Bob Meyers and second baseman Buddy Gray were released, Tate being sold to a Tobacco State league Cub affiliate.

Tate is remembered as the first Marion player in camp for spring training.

Meyers, an accomplished high school athlete at Lorain, O., was also a hockey player. He earned enough recognition in this sport to be given a tryout with the Cleveland Barons last season.

Frank Brown, Zanesville player in 1944, now with Danville in the Three-I league, is batting at a .309 clip according to figures released last week.

FELLER NAMED TO STOP LOSING STREAK

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, May 27 — Bobby Feller, the Cleveland Indians' top insurance policy against losing streaks, draws the assignment today of snapping a two-game string of Tribe losses against the league-leading Detroit Tigers.

The hot-and cold Indians remained on the frigid side yesterday as they suffered their fifth shutout of the season, 1-0, at the hands of Stubby Overmile, substitute Detroit hurler.

Don Black held the Tigers to one tally—Eddie Lake's sixth inning homer.

Cleveland threatened in the fourth when George Metkovich and Lou Boudreau cracked singles, but a fast double play squelched the threat. Les Fleming contributed a pinch single in the eighth and advanced on an error, but two Tribe hitters failed to produce.

Burly Pat Seerey, Tribe left fielder, fanned for his 29th time in 25 games and extended his string of hitless appearances at the plate to 13.

Cleveland's defeat, coupled with the New York Yankees' victory over Boston, toppled the Tribe into third place.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By The Associated Press

Batting. Eddie Lake, Tigers—Hit a sixth inning home run for the only score as Detroit nicked the Cleveland Indians 1-0.

Pitching. Stubby Overmire, Tigers—Making his first start of the season, Overmire held the Indians to six scattered hits in pitching the Tigers to a 1-0 triumph.

Bob Rice Pitches Perfect Softball Game for Trinity

This will be the scene at Indianapolis on Memorial day when huge crowds again will jam the speedway to witness the classic 500-mile auto race. Thirty-four cars are slated to start the gruelling grind, but not half of them will still be circling at the finish. George Robson won the race last year, only to be killed in a crash during a race in Atlanta a few months later.

Don't Count Cardinals Out, Brecheen's Pitching Warns

By The Associated Press

Skeptics who have counted the St. Louis Cardinals out of the National league pennant race apparently did not reckon with Harry (The Cat) Brecheen.

'Tis true the world champions are still in the cellar today six games behind the first place New York Giants, but the revivified Redbirds, from Manager Eddie Dyer down, feel confident that the club will claw its way up there pretty soon, especially if The Cat continues to display his early season cunning.

BRECHEEN

He has won five of his first seven starts, allowed only 13 runs and 47 hits in 62 innings and finished every game he started.

His latest victory, a 3-1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs last night in St. Louis was the fourth win in the last five starts for the up and coming Cards.

Brecheen allowed only five hits and lost his shutout in the ninth when a walk to Phil Cavaretta, a pinch single by Clyde McCullough and a fly by Don Johnson produced a Cub run.

The largest crowd ever to see a single game—74,747 paying customers—cheered itself hoarse as the rejuvenated New York Yankees continued their bombardment of Boston Red Sox pitchers by flattening the American league champions 9-3 in a night game.

DI MAGGIO

Joltin' Joe DiMaggio, finally displaying the form that made him a pre-war great, and Bill Johnson each knocked in four runs. DiMag delivered the big blow, a three-run fifth inning home run off Joe Dobson which broke a 3-3 deadlock. The Yankees now have won five straight.

HIGBE WHIPS CINCY FOR 1ST PIRATE WIN

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 27—Kirby Higbe wasn't around last night for the finish but the Pittsburgh right-hander's three-hit hurling in seven and two-thirds innings was more than enough to win as the Pirates trimmed Cincinnati 5-1.

A crowd of 19,967 saw Higbe notch his first victory for Pittsburgh since his recent acquisition from Brooklyn.

The Redlegs were able to connect for just one single in the first seven rounds, but found the range in the eighth and scored a run with two quick doubles. Art Herring came to Higbe's aid and the threat died.

The former Dodger helped his own cause when he drove in two markers in the Pirates' three-run uprising in the fourth.

Bucky Walters was clubbed from the mound in the fifth when the Pirates banged out three singles, good for one run.

A one-run homer in the sixth by outfielder Culley Rikard rounded out the Pittsburgh scoring.

Retires 21 Men In Order For 5-0 Win Over Presbyterians

The doors of softball's hall of fame swung open to southpaw pitcher Bob Rice yesterday afternoon at the Marion Power Shovel diamond.

Making his first start of the season for Trinity he twirled seven hitless, scoreless innings against First Presbyterian as his teammates backed him up with five runs off of five hits.

Only 21 men faced him over the route, ten of them striking out. All the other outs, except a grounder to shortstop, were via fly balls. The last man to face him was the only Presbyterian to pole the ball out of the infield and that long fly to left was received by Starling Somerlot.

Pitched Last Season

Rice also pitched for Trinity last season, sharing the duty with Coxy Weiss. This year he will have to bear the brunt because the veteran Weiss is recovering from an operation on his back and won't be able to see action for the rest of the season.

Rice's accomplishment was further enhanced by the fact that he had not warmed up on any other occasion this year. An orthodox underhand twirler, he throws a spinning hopper.

Trinity picked up its winning run in the fourth inning when Holliday and French each got on after errors and M. Gorby Jr. banged out a double to send them scooting home.

Pick Up Another Run

In the fifth Trinity picked up another marker as Kenny Somerlot batted in brother Starling.

The last inning saw the winners pushing across two more runs as Rice and K. Somerlot each got on via hits and Johnson was awarded three bases after Presby second baseman threw his glove at Johnson's grounder between second and first.

The other game yesterday afternoon was a family quarrel between the Irish with St. Mary beating St. Mary 2 4 to 3.

The No. 1 team got single runs in the first and fourth innings and scored two in the fifth. The No. 2 Irish scored a run in the fourth and two in the sixth.

The other two games scheduled were postponed because of wet grounds.

Kohen To Meet Jones At Armory Thursday

The "Red Devil," Sammy Kohen of New York City, will meet Negro grappler Rufus Jones, also of the Atlantic seaport, in the two-hour main go at the Armory Thursday night.

In the one-hour semi-final Gordent Hessell, the man with the perfect body from Milwaukee, is paired with Frankie Clemons of Battle Creek, Mich.

The 8:30 opener, a 10-minute match, will be between Frank Sloat and Charles Foust.

Programs on the Air

A second chance in life is epitomized in "The Fruitless Fig Tree," a drama set against the operation of a large country estate 2,000 years ago, to be heard during the ABC broadcast of "The Greatest Story Ever Told" on Sunday, June 1, at 5:30 p. m. A dramatization of a parable told by The Master, the story symbolizes a situation experienced or witnessed many times by most people during the course of their lives.

There will be at least one unknown starter in the 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway race when Mutual listeners hear Sportscaster Bill Slater and his crew broadcast the event on May 30. Henry L. Brooke, English racer, will drive a new $20,000 car that has never been raced before. Brooke, a native of Coventry, England, arrived in New York by plane on May 20. His racing car was shipped on the Queen Elizabeth.

Milton Caniff, who will be interviewed Wednesday, May 28 on ABC's "Betty Crocker Magazine of the Air," says the glamorous working girls in his comic strip, "Steve Canyon," are not exaggerated. "Working girls are better dressed than rich women," says Milt, "because they have to use their brains—they can't rely on money alone."

Smilin' Ed McConnell, whose friendly song-and-patter routines are heard Saturday mornings over the Mutual Network will celebrate his twenty-fifth anniversary on radio during his broadcast Saturday, May 31, by singing the same tunes he first presented for crystal-cat's whisker-headphone set listeners to an Atlanta, Ga., radio station's programs.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 27 — The stock market generally continued its downward course today after an early selective recovery attempt failed to get anywhere in particular.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

"OH, dear!" Mary said dolorously. "That rules out bacon and eggs, and those wonderful muffins Room Service sends up."

Katharine gave me a wink which Mary did not see, and I realized that she had baited her into expressing a preference for an article of food. So I was not surprised when she immediately rescinded her own ruling, for I knew that Mary's half degree of temperature had nothing to do with her digestive processes, but was caused by the state of her nerves. Above everything else, she needed nourishing food, but both Katharine and I had feared her capricious appetite.

Will Break Rule

"Look here!" Katharine said, in a tone that brought Mary's eyes up to hers. "I'm going to break the rule I just made. If you'll eat all the breakfast I order for you, I'll let you have one egg, a scrumptious rasher of bacon, and two muffins."

Mary's eyes rounded into a question.

"For the love of Gabriel and his trumpet!" she intoned. "What more would you expect me to eat? I'm not a stevedore, you know."

"Not very much, Katharine said, ignoring her last sentence. "Just fruit of some kind, or fruit juice, two slices of tomato with your egg and bacon, and a cup of coffee."

"That isn't so bad," Mary said. "I think I can manage that. Now for the prize quiz question. When may Noel come down here? I don't suppose he could have breakfast here with me?"

Hideous Fear

Her face changed even as she spoke the words, and the old hideous fear came into her eyes.

"Oh! Oh! I don't mean that at all!" she cried hastily. "Please forget I asked that! But I would like to see him for a few minutes."

"After you've eaten your breakfast, and have been settled in a nice easy chair—we're not sticking strictly to the rule of keeping you in bed until your half degree of temperature vanishes—we'll telephone Noel and tell him that as soon as he has had his breakfast he may come down here for a few minutes. That is, if you will promise to say or do nothing that will make him anxious about you. I think I'll leave you to discuss that point now with your Auntie Madge, while I order your breakfast and ours. What's yours, Madge—grapefruit juice, cereal, toast and coffe, as per the usual?"

"That's right," I told her, and she went into the sitting room, closing the door behind her.

Mary looked up at me, her frayed nerves showing in her eyes.

"What's the colossal notion," she asked, "discussing the way I'm going to handle Noel? After all, he is my husband, you know."

I paid no attention whatever to the gibe, for I knew that, normally, Mary never would have spoken in such fashion to either Katharine or me. But before I could speak again, she caught at my hand, while horror filled her eyes.

"Oh, darling!" she gasped. "Do forgive me! I didn't mean that—you know I didn't I'm such an awful heel! Why don't you throw me into the ash can and not bother with me?"

I took both her hands and gave her as near a grin as I could manage.

"You're not a heel, but you are a prize nit wit," I told her. "There is nothing new about this discussion of what you will say to Noel. You know that he is nearly out of his mind with worry about you. The best thing for him will be to go to those classes he is teaching, and to his other work. You know that he will not do that if he is not reassured about your condition, and he will take no one's word about it. He will have to have the assurance of his own eyes and ears.

"That is why," I went on, "that we want you to put on an act for Noel this morning. You can do it perfectly, if you make up your mind to do it. Just make him believe that you are much better; that coming home has done it, and make him promise to go to his work as usual.

"Also," I went on swiftly, "be sure to make him promise to stay at his father's until you are able to go down to your apartment with him. It would be too depressing for him to stay down there alone. He managed all right when you were away, but now that you are so near, it would be torture for him there."

A queer brooding expression came into her eyes.

"Poor Noel!" she said. "I wonder how long it will take him to get over it."

The icy finger touched my spine again, but I answered her as if there were no hidden, sinister meaning to her words.

"His worry over you?" I asked quickly. "Of course he won't stop worrying about you until you are well."

Terry and the Pirates By George Wunder

OH, GOLLY! IF THIS CLOWN'S STORY IS ON THE LEVEL, IT COULD BE THAT LEE AND CHARLES HAVE LIFTED HP THEIR BAG, FLAT FEET AND KICKED OVER A BOOBY TRAP ... WHEN I CALLED PAT, HE SAID HE WOULD BE RIGHT OVER— WISH HE'D HURRY...
HI, CHAZZ! GOT HERE AS SOON AS I COULD... DID YOU FIND OUT WHAT DESTINATION BEHMINE BOUGHT THOSE TICKETS FOR?
SIGNALS OFF, PAT! THE CLERK WHO WAITED ON HER CLAIMS SHE DIDN'T BUY TICKETS. SEEMS SHE MADE SOME INQUIRIES ABOUT SAILINGS, TOOK SOME OF HIS BUSINESS CARDS, AND WALKED OUT.
BUT WHEN SHE CAME OUT STUFFING THE CARDS INTO HER PURSE AND CLIMBED INTO A CAR, LOADED DOWN WITH BAGGAGE, IT SURE LOOKED LIKE A TAKE-OFF FOR PARTS UNKNOWN.
MM-MMM... THAT'S EXACTLY WHAT IT WAS INTENDED TO LOOK LIKE.
